MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 23.

PRINCESS OF ZANZIBAR.-Io a Berlin police cour not long ago a servant girl was accused by her mistress of gross negligence and disobedi ence in discharge of her duties. When the judge asked the plantiff, a simply but respectably dressed lady, her name, she proudly drew herself up and replied, "I am, by birth, a princess of Zanzibar." Her declaration, at first discredited, proved to be perfectly true. She was a neice of the reigning Sultan of Zuzibar, whose displeasure she aroused by a secret alliance with a Mr. Ruele, a native of Hamburg, who had made her acquiotance during his s ay on the coast of East Africa. The Princess, who hecame estranged from her family on account of her marriage with a Christain, followed her husband to Germany, where she had, how ever, the misfortune soon to be left a widow. She attempted a recordilation with her uncle on his visit to Lordon, but her endeavors signally faile, the Sultan even refusing to receive her. On Mrs. Ruele's return to Germany some influen ial tricods of her late husband took up her one and laid it before the Government, when, owing to her high birth and merits gran ed ber a small yearly allowance. She is now living in Berlin and gaining ber livelihood by giving I ssons in her mother tongue to those consular officials and travel re intent on proceeding to E s Afres .- N. Y. Inbune.

DUMAS AS A PUBLIST .- One night at the theatre of tan Carle, Naples, Dumas the elder f. und himself chatting familiarly with a stranger, who, when the play was over, said to him patron-

"I have greatly enjoyed your conversation, sir, and hope to see more of you. If ever you wist Paris call on me. I am Alexander Dumas."
"The devil you ar. I So am I," replied the novelist, with a roar of laughter.
By the way, Dumas lett Naples under peculiar circumstances

liar c reum tances

One fine morning he printed an article in which he handled the Italian people in a manner more vigorous than courteous.

At eight o'clock the paper came cut; by ten

Dumas had received thirty challenges; by noon sixty. At 1p m he received a meeting of the one hundred and twenty friends of the challengers and said unto them:

"Gentlemen, I leave Naples to-night; there fore, I have not time to fight all of your principals singly. Nevertheless, I am anxious to give them all the satisfaction that is in my power, so, as I have the choice of weapons, propose fight-ing with pisto's. Your sixty principals will be collected into a group, and on receiving the word, fire a volley at me, and I'll blaze away into the crowd." The proposition was not accepted.
